

Campus Conduct Hotline is a confidential, independent, call-in service that provides a simple, anonymous way for you to help preserve the values and reputation of our institution. One phone call from you can alert the University's administration of problems that may affect the entire campus community. When you use Campus Conduct Hotline, your call will be: confidential and anonymous; answered by a masters' degree specialist in psychology or social service; handled with support and sensitivity; reported to the University's administration for investigation; and assigned a case number you can use to follow-up on the status of your concern.

Please note that this process is not a replacement for current reporting protocols as outlined in existing campus-wide policies and procedures, nor does it replace the role of Campus Security as the first point of contact for any criminal activity or personal safety issues. The Hotline is not intended for handling employee grievances, such as complaints concerning working conditions, performance evaluations, hours of work, or wages.

The University strongly encourages members of the Whitworth community to report concerns of misconduct directly through normal lines of communication. Matters of this nature usually cannot be appropriately addressed when the complainant chooses to remain anonymous, and the University may not be able to appropriately investigate such allegations in an anonymous report.
