

FACULTY SCHOLARSHIP at WHITWORTH UNIVERSITY

MAY 2007-MAY 2008

Faculty Scholarship at Whitworth

Who We Are

The Whitworth faculty includes 138 Christian teacher-scholars. These committed teachers engage in scholarship to advance their understanding of the world and to bring new discoveries into their classrooms. Organizations beyond our campus have recognized the high quality of our faculty scholarship, and they support Whitworth research programs. Whitworth faculty members have received research grants from a broad range of organizations, including the Fund for the Improvement of Post-Secondary Education, the M.J. Murdock Charitable Trust, NASA, The National Endowment for the Arts, and the National Science Foundation.

What We Do

Whitworth faculty members are engaged in a wide array of research and scholarship projects. The work of our natural scientists includes investigating the physics of electric propulsion, studying organometallic chemistry in aqueous solutions, and reviewing Fibonacci numbers as quantum analogs. Scholars in the humanities conduct their daily classes and publish poetry, analyze histories of the American colonial and antebellum South, and compose biblical commentaries. In the course of their other teaching and research responsibilities, social scientists examine the effects of regional trade agreements on trade policy stability, analyze the impact of sexual abuse on male partners of female survivors, and evaluate ideas for reconstructing the political culture in Liberia. And faculty in the arts teach, perform, contribute to exhibits, create arrangements for jazz ensembles, direct staged readings in Spokane theatres, and display artwork based on and inspired by Gulf Coast communities in crisis.

Why We Do It

While teaching remains the central faculty responsibility at Whitworth, scholarship is also crucial. Faculty scholarship models lifelong learning for our students while keeping faculty members immersed in the joy of discovery and connected to the broader conversations of their academic disciplines. Some faculty conduct research and write monographs with their undergraduate students in special research programs that mentor students for graduate study. Some address disciplinary problems from explicitly Christian viewpoints as a unique contribution to discussions in the wider academy. And some integrate new knowledge into governmental policies and social programs to serve humanity. Regardless of faculty members' motivation, their dedication leads to a common outcome: the discovery and synthesis of knowledge to serve humanity.

Why We Want You to Know about It

The purpose of this annual publication is to share some of the ways in which Whitworth's faculty contributes to the world of knowledge. In the following pages you will read about recent publications, scholarly presentations, professional service, research grants, fellowships and awards. You will also read (on the following page) the faculty-authored definition of scholarship and see how Whitworth faculty members engage across the four primary types of scholarship. While this publication is not comprehensive, it does highlight the breadth and depth of faculty scholarship at Whitworth as it provides a small taste of the fruit of the productive work of the university's teacher-scholars.

The Whitworth Concept of Scholarship

Whitworth University seeks to be a community of Christian teacher-scholars learning and growing together with our students. Whitworth affirms the vital importance of both scholarly activity and classroom teaching, and sees the two as mutually beneficial and fundamentally integrated in developing the minds and hearts of both students and faculty.

The concept of scholarship at Whitworth University recognizes the value of all who are engaged in critical thinking and intellectual pursuits that include the creation, discovery, integration, analysis and application of ideas. While our definition reflects our identity as a small liberal arts university dedicated to teaching and to a wide range of service opportunities and professional development, it also recognizes the traditional concept of scholarship informing the wider realm of academia.

Scholarship at Whitworth University is defined as systematic, focused attention on a question, problem, or idea – attention that is characterized by expertise, originality, analysis and significance. Scholarship results in a product that is shared with appropriate peer audiences within the wider academic community through media such as publication, performance, exhibitions, presentations and workshops.

Scholarship may explore new territory, build upon what is known, or interpret what is given; it results in a product or offering that contributes to the broader world of knowledge. A scholar is an active learner who brings his or her experience and knowledge into the classroom. Scholars manifest and model the qualities of exemplary students: Scholars ask questions, seek answers, look for connections, engage in problem-solving, and apply what they have learned. Good scholars, like good students, demonstrate a lifelong commitment to the pursuit of knowledge.
