Federal regulations require schools to confirm that a federal parent loan borrower meets the following requirements:

- Is the biological parent, legally adoptive parent, or the step-parent (who reported information on the FAFSA)
- Is a US Citizen or has a legally approved residency status
- Is not in an overpayment on any federal student aid
- Is not in default on any federal student loans
- Has not cancelled any prior Federal Direct Loans for total and permanent disability
- Does not have a federal government judgement lien on any property
- Is not currently incarcerated

I have reviewed the requirements listed above and meet all of them as indicated.
