WHITWORTH UNIVERSITY: ROOTED IN THE PAST, ORIENTED TOWARD THE FUTURE

WHITWORTH: A DREAM THAT HAS ENDURED

Young George Whitworth was a man of restless energy, little like the stern looking man whose portrait resides in the university archives. Trained as a harness maker, a lawyer, and a minister, he was an optimist who didn't allow disappointment to deter him.

In 1852, as a young minister in the Ohio Valley, he wrote in his journal of his dream – a colony of Presbyterians on Puget Sound with “a good parochial school” offering “a good English education and a thorough religious training.”

Fifty families signed up for his mission trek across the plains to the Northwest. Then they began to back out and drop off. When he arrived in Portland in 1853, only his own family was with him. His dream deferred, he spent the next 30 years becoming a leading citizen of the Puget Sound region.

He farmed, practiced law, served in government, and pioneered in education. He founded 15 churches and served two terms as president of the Territorial University, later renamed the University of Washington.

In 1883, in the village of Sumner, southeast of Tacoma, he revived the dream and founded Sumner Academy. Seven years later, on Feb. 20, 1890, the school was incorporated as Whitworth College. The Reverend Amos T. Fox, principal of the academy, became its first president. The Reverend Calvin W. Stewart, who remained until 1898, succeeded him that same year. By 1899, the college had outgrown the rural community of Sumner and moved into town –Tacoma.

The following year, 84-year-old Dr. Whitworth, still president of the Whitworth Board of Trustees, appeared before the annual meeting of Synod and outlined the standards of the college. Though the style and form are old-fashioned, the principles, after 90 years, remain central to the life of Whitworth University.

He called for “adequate buildings to accommodate students and make possible those higher values sought by a Christian college; scholarly teachers in sufficient number, chosen for their personal qualities as much as their scholarship -- Godly men and women who love teaching as a field of enduring usefulness; conditions favorable to students receiving the personal attention of teachers in and out of the classroom.”

He stressed the need for special attention to the physical well-being of students “with definite instruction and exercise in physical development; marked and delicate attention to the social life of students; the careful nurture of moral and religious life, without being obtrusive, to make it easy and natural for young people to respond to the spiritual influences of the classroom, personal contact and religious instruction of church and school; and insisting upon the old-fashioned idea of college for all-around culture, leaving specialization and broad electives to the university.”

When support in Tacoma began to decline, the trustees cast about for an opportunity to move. Spokane real estate developer Jay P. Graves had long held a dream of a college on Spokane's north side. He offered 640 acres in his Country Home Estates, and in September 1914 Whitworth College opened its doors in Spokane, its new and permanent home.

Two dormitories, a president's home, an athletic field, tennis courts, and utilities were completed by January 1915. Later, the three buildings were named McMillan Hall, Ballard Hall, and MacKay Hall.

High turnover of faculty and administrators marked the early Spokane years, and the college survived a one-year closure because of World War I, several threats of consolidation, frequent financial crises, and a fire that destroyed Ballard Hall in 1927.

The 1930's finally brought stability. Academic standings improved, more faculty members came and stayed and more students completed all four years of their education at Whitworth. After years of short-term presidencies, President Ward Sullivan's nine-year administration, 1929 to 1938, became the longest in the college's 48-year history.

But his successor was to stay even longer. The Reverend Frank F. Warren, after turning the job down once, became the president in 1940. In his 23 years, the college of three buildings occupying only three acres grew to include 25 major buildings spread over one hundred acres. Its assets grew from $225,000 to $26,000,000, and enrollment multiplied from 223 to 1,800.

Dr. Warren led the college until his death in 1963. His successor was the Reverend Mark Koehler, Whitworth's first alumnus president. Dr. Koehler weathered the storms of students' protest in the mid-sixties and presided over celebration of Whitworth's Diamond Jubilee and the addition of the Eric Johnston Science Center and Stewart Hall. He resigned in the spring of 1969.

In February 1970, Edward B. Lindaman became Whitworth's 14th president. His appointment was a radical departure. Neither a professional educator nor a cleric, Dr. Lindaman brought the viewpoint and style of the aerospace industry to the college. During his tenure, undergraduate enrollment stabilized at the 1,200 level, 11 new buildings were added, and bold new programs were begun in academics, student life, and college development. He resigned in 1980.

Under the leadership of Dr. Robert Mounce from 1981 to 1987, the college remained dedicated to George Whitworth's vision. The financial stability of the college improved. A new $1.7 million aquatics center was dedicated in 1985. A $7 million tax-exempt bond issue was approved in 1986 to upgrade and improve campus facilities.

Arthur J. De Jong was named president in 1988. A veteran of 10 years as president at Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, he emphasized long-range planning and faculty expansion and development. During his tenure the college conducted a $15 million Centennial Capital Campaign for a library addition, a new student union building, improvements in athletic facilities, as well as increased Endowment Funds. Construction of the library addition, more than doubling the available space of the original structure, began during the summer of 1991 and was completed in time for the 1992 fall term. Dr. De Jong resigned in the summer of 1992.

In the summer of 1993, William P. Robinson became the 17th president of Whitworth College and he served until he was named president emeritus in 2010. His tenure was the second longest of any Whitworth president. During Robinson's tenure, Whitworth enjoyed record levels of student enrollment, retention, selectivity and graduation rates; the financial position and facilities were greatly strengthened; and Whitworth's external visibility and reputation grew markedly. However, many would argue that Robinson's greatest contribution was his ability to articulate and energize support for Whitworth's unique educational mission focused on both rigorous intellectual inquiry and the integration of Christian faith and learning. A clear and unwavering commitment to the mission provided a foundation for the name change, in 2007, to Whitworth University.

Beck A. Taylor became the 18th president of Whitworth University in 2010, after serving as dean and professor of economics at the Brock School of Business at Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama. He served as president for 11 years, until 2021. During his tenure, Taylor spearheaded Whitworth's ambitious 10-year vision and strategic plan, Whitworth 2021: Courage at the Crossroads, which detailed plans to continue to elevate Whitworth among the leading Christian universities in the country. Under Taylor's leadership, Whitworth renewed its emphasis on community involvement and heightened its efforts to enhance academic programs and quality, including the creation of the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Continuing Studies, an honors program and enhanced graduate programs, including Whitworth's first professional doctoral programs. More than $110 million in campus infrastructure improvements were made. Taylor also led the university's largest comprehensive fundraising campaign. During Taylor's tenure, Whitworth more than doubled the number of its international students and students from underrepresented racial and ethnic populations.

Scott McQuilkin became Whitworth's interim president in 2021 and was appointed as Whitworth's 19th president in 2022. Having devoted his entire career to the university, serving in various faculty, coaching and administrative roles, McQuilkin is regarded as an exceptional and visionary leader. Before becoming president, he served for 12 years as vice president for institutional advancement. During his tenure, institutional advancement carried out its most successful fundraising campaign in the university's history. McQuilkin is an alumnus of Whitworth; he holds both his undergraduate degree and master's degree in education from the university.

STATEMENT OF IDENTITY

A Description of Whitworth University as a Christian Academic Community

Founded by Presbyterians in 1890 and continuously affiliated with the Presbyterian church, Whitworth University is anchored in the Reformed tradition within Protestant Christianity. Since its earliest history, however, its faculty and staff have included Christians from a variety of denominations. The university's heritage also includes an evangelical current, flowing through both the Reformed and ecumenical streams, that emphasizes the importance of personal relationship to Jesus Christ. Although these Reformed, ecumenical, and evangelical influences are sometimes in tension, we believe that in the context of a Christian academic institution they are not essentially in conflict but in fact are mutually enriching.

Whitworth's identity as a university rooted in these various theological streams is reflected in its mission: providing an education of mind and heart by a community of Christian scholars. George Whitworth's original vision was centered on making Whitworth "an institution of learning of the highest grade" which would produce the finished scholar, a person of high moral character and erudition. Despite forces of secularization, particularly prominent during the late 20th century, in which students were encouraged to define their own ends and institutions were reluctant to define matters of character, Whitworth University remains committed to scholarship and education informed by theological values.

From this convergence of traditions, and in continuing dialogue with Scripture and human experience, we draw the commitments that shape and define our life as a Christian academic community. Among these, the following would command a broad consensus if not complete unanimity among Whitworth's trustees, administration, staff, and faculty:

- We are committed to intellectual rigor and to the vigorous and unfettered pursuit of knowledge and truth in which all areas of inquiry are valid for exploring God's creation and work in the world. We recognize that reason is the most distinctive feature of humankind, and at the same time a capacity vulnerable to misuse. It is largely through the intellect that we comprehend the revelation of God; it is also the intellect that can lead us astray through the illusion of self-sufficiency. We affirm at the same time that all aspects of life matter: action, emotion, and character as well as cognition. We are called as whole persons to live lives of faith, commitment and service, and to reflect the sacrificial love of Christ in the world.
- We affirm our role as an educational community, with education's unique and necessary commitment to academic freedom, to healthy debate, and to a willingness to listen to voices that enrich, broaden and challenge our perspectives. We also affirm the individual Christian scholar's responsibility to serve the mission of the institution with which they choose to affiliate, and to exercise respect for others even in the midst of vigorous disagreement.
- We affirm the need for engagement with the world, and understand our Christian mandate to include participating in, leavening, and transforming the social, political, economic, and cultural domains. We recognize and respect Christian differences on how this mandate is best carried out.
- We affirm our responsibility to extend hospitality, charity, and love to all members of the Whitworth community. We uphold the worth of individuals and value their differences; but like the New Testament church in which there is "neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female," we also affirm a community identity which transcends individual differences.

As a function of its theological heritage and commitments, Whitworth University values and has worked to preserve those aspects of community that provide essential moorings of identity. Central to this mooring is the university's policy of hiring people who deeply share commitments to Christian faith and to higher education. From its founding, Whitworth has required that all regular personnel profess to the reality of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. Yet Whitworth University reflects an ecumenical spirit in hiring rather than requiring subscription to an institutional doctrinal creed. It asks each employee to affirm faith in Christ and to provide a personal statement regarding ways in which faith informs understanding of their vocation at Whitworth. Given the tendency of institutions that hire outside their mission to see erosion of institutional identity, mission-based hiring is of critical importance. We also uphold the value of a community of Christian scholars who integrate faith and learning and support one another in providing academic resources to the Christian community and Christian voices within the broader academy.

Whitworth University's educational identity and ecumenical spirit likewise are the basis for its student recruitment policy. While the foundation of institutional identity is preserved through mission-based hiring, students are enrolled from an even wider array of backgrounds, including perspectives from outside the realm of Christian faith. As an educational institution, we live in the world and do not wish to establish a fortress mentality that excludes any who wish to learn in this environment and can benefit from the academic strengths we have to offer. In addition, we do not want and would not thrive with complete unanimity of perspective. And so we value the presence both of students who share our core Christian convictions and of those whose ideas help offset an easy presumption of certainty. To enrich our always-limited understanding and to reflect the quality of community that God created, we will work to encourage rich and respectful campus conversation in which a variety of voices, from beyond our community as well as within it, are heard and thoughtfully considered.

WORKPLACE PROCEDURES

EMPLOYEE ORIENTATION

New employees should participate in orientation, where they are provided with information regarding salary, benefits, and general employment policies and procedures. Employee orientation meetings are scheduled by human resource services, in addition to department-specific training conducted by supervisors.

SUPERVISION

Supervisors are expected to provide those they supervise with clear expectations, performance feedback, support, and advocacy. In addition, supervisors verify accurate reporting of hours worked. Supervisors consult with human resources staff and area cabinet officers regarding employment conditions and/or employee performance as needed.

EMPLOYEE DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURES

1. Employee discipline is intended to be corrective rather than punitive, and will likely involve progressive measures unless gross misconduct is found. Gross misconduct may include but is not limited to engaging in or threatening physical violence; willful destruction of Whitworth University or student property; theft, including theft of Whitworth equipment, funds, material, or personal information about other employees or students; embezzlement; serious or substantial violations of federal, state, or local laws; or violation of the university's EEO and ADA policies including Whitworth's policies on discrimination, retaliation, and harassment. Some offenses may result in immediate termination. A written record of any such disciplinary action taken will be maintained in the employee's personnel file.
2. When an employee fails to observe expected standards of performance and conduct, counseling or a verbal warning by the supervisor may be appropriate.
3. When further disciplinary action is warranted, additional measures may include disciplinary probation, suspension, or dismissal, depending on the severity of the situation.

PAYROLL SERVICES

Payroll is issued on the 15th and the last day of the month for non-exempt (hourly) employees, and the last day of the month for exempt (salaried) employees, and includes payment for hours worked in the previous reporting period. (If the pay date falls on a weekend or holiday, payday will be changed to the last workday immediately before the scheduled pay date).

Salary payments are handled through direct deposit. Direct deposit forms are available at the time of hire or from payroll services. Payroll advice forms/earnings statements are announced on Pirate Port every payday and these documents are available through self-service on Pirate Port. The payroll advice form will detail information regarding hours worked, contracts paid for faculty, and deductions for each pay period, as well as year-to-date information on gross and net pay, taxes, and federal wages. Supplementary information about year-to-date deductions for federal income tax, social security, health plans, Whitworth donations, United Way, and other optional deductions is also included. Please review your pay advice each pay period and notify payroll services if there is a discrepancy.

Note: It is the employee's responsibility to notify payroll services when closing or changing bank accounts to ensure continuity of payroll service and to avoid delayed payments. Payroll services must be notified 10 days in advance of a pay date in order to make the change.

EMPLOYEE IDENTIFICATION CARDS

All employees receive a picture identification card issued upon hire by Whitworth University and in subsequent years on a regular basis. Identification cards allow use of the library, aquatic center, fitness center and/or other program facilities, as well as identify the individual as a current employee to campus security officers and other officials. A Whitworth identification card must be shown in order to access campus dining facilities. Replacement of a lost card is subject to a fee and is the responsibility of the employee.

KEYS/ACCESS CARDS

Keys to offices, building(s), and/or other appropriate work areas are issued to the new employee by facilities services upon authorization by their supervisor. The provost/area vice president and director of facilities services must approve issuance of exterior building keys or access cards as appropriate.

VEHICLE REGISTRATION

Whitworth employees who drive to work are required to register each vehicle they park in campus parking lots. There is no charge for employees who park their registered vehicles. Registration stickers may be obtained from student life. A copy of the Whitworth University vehicle policy is given to each employee upon receipt of a vehicle registration sticker. Employees are required to follow all on-campus parking regulations. Failure to do so may result in parking citations, fines, or vehicles being towed, depending on the circumstances. Fines and towing fees will be the responsibility of the employee.

COMMUTE TRIP REDUCTION (CTR) PROGRAM

Whitworth University is one of a number of Spokane County employers who participate in the commute trip reduction program passed by the Washington State legislature in 1991. The purpose of CTR is to improve air quality in Spokane County by reducing the number of trips and the number of miles traveled by employees as they commute to and from work.

As affected participating employer and as good stewards of our environment, Whitworth seeks to reduce commuter trips and miles. Whitworth employees are encouraged to consider alternatives to single occupant commutes to and from work. These alternatives include car-pooling, walking, bicycling, and utilization of public transportation. Human resource services administers the CTR program and is available to help employees design appropriate and individualized commuting alternates.

PERSONNEL FILES

Human resource services maintains a file for each regular employee, which includes biographical information, work history, staff evaluations, position descriptions, employment statements, and other work-related information. The employee is welcome to make an appointment to review their file and may request a copy of the documents contained in the file by contacting the director of HR operations and information systems. This file is accessible to the employee and to the staff of human resource services. Current supervisors may access staff performance review documents. Supervisors considering hiring the employee may also view performance reviews. Faculty evaluation documents are retained in the office of academic affairs.

A second file is also maintained on each regular employee in human resource services. This file contains benefit-related documents and materials. This file is only accessible to the employee and the staff of human resource services.

To comply with HIPAA privacy regulations, a separate confidential file is kept in human resource services that deals with all pertinent medical information. This file is only accessible to the employee and the staff of human resource services.

CAMPUS CLOSINGS

Administrative offices may be closed, as necessary, at the discretion and direction of the president/designee.

1. Initiation of Closures

- a. Cancellations of academic programs are authorized only by the provost/designee. Individual deans/department chairs and individual faculty are not authorized to cancel classes.
- b. Closures and/or early closures of Whitworth offices are authorized only by the president/designee. Individual division heads and department managers are not authorized to close offices early.

2. Payment for Closures

The salaries of exempt employees are unaffected by temporary closures of the institution. Hourly employees will receive regular pay for any regularly scheduled work hours that are missed due to an official closing of campus offices.

DEPARTMENTAL FUNDRAISING

The Whitworth Office of Institutional Advancement wishes to help and encourage all of those who seek to raise funds through the sharing of ideas, support of special programs, and by helping to streamline operations. In this process, it is important to coordinate fundraising efforts so as not to impact the same individuals, companies, and corporations with several appeals throughout the year. Therefore, to maximize effort and to create continuity and cooperation, the following policy applies:

1. The vice president for institutional advancement must approve all fundraising activities of the university.
2. Proposals must be submitted in writing to the vice president for institutional advancement. Proposals should include:
 - name and description of project;
 - purpose for which funds will be used;
 - desired amount to be raised;
 - plans to raise the needed funds; and
 - names of individuals, foundations, corporations, businesses, etc., identified as prospects to be contacted.
3. Submit plans for projects four weeks prior to implementation. The vice president for institutional advancement/designee will notify the department of receipt of the proposal and of approval, or rejection, of the submitted plan.

CAMPUS FACILITY ACCESS

Campus facility access is regulated by Whitworth administrative approval. Facilities will be accessible only by approved schedules and special permits. Special is defined as "after normal scheduled hours." Requests for special access must be processed through the appropriate administrative authority and will be required for special facility access. Campus security may request proof of documentation before allowing entry to any campus facility. Where documentation is not provided, campus security may deny access to such facilities. Campus security officials may evict those persons who do not have approved access and/or documentation.

CAMPUS SECURITY REPORT

Title II of the Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990 requires that colleges and universities distribute to all current students and employees, and upon request, to any applicant for enrollment or employment, an annual security report that includes specific security policies and statistics concerning criminal offenses that occurred on campus and were reported to campus security authorities or local police agencies. In compliance with that law a complete copy of the annual Campus Security Report is available in the office of the vice president for student life, the campus security office, and online at www.whitworth.edu/security/pdf/campussecurityreport.pdf.

CAMPUS LAW ENFORCEMENT

Campus Security Officer Role - Campus security officers are employed by Whitworth University for the purpose of performing physical security of the campus and the protection of persons and property from injury or loss within the property boundary of Whitworth University.

This definition includes all types of injuries and all types of losses. Physical security is broad and all encompassing; however, it is restricted to Whitworth's boundaries, including Whitworth-owned and occupied houses adjacent to campus.

Campus Security Officer Authority - A Whitworth University campus security officer has the same authority as a private citizen, and additionally, is charged with responsibility and commensurate authority by Whitworth to properly carry out administrative policy and procedure.

Campus security officers operate in close contact and working relationship with the Spokane County Sheriff's Department. This working relationship is one of respect and cooperation. The Whitworth University security officer's primary responsibility is prevention, whereas a police officer's is apprehension. It is the security officer's task to prevent incidents from occurring. Once the law has been broken the campus security officer may turn the problem over to the Spokane County Sheriff's department for appropriate action. When this is necessary, a Whitworth University security officer's action will support and complement those of the Sheriff's Deputies.

The purposes of Whitworth University security resources include, but are not limited to:

- Control flow of persons into and out of Whitworth University property. This includes the securing and unlocking of facilities;
- Control flow of vehicles into and out of Whitworth University protected area. This includes traffic regulation enforcement;
- Control flow of property into and out of Whitworth University protected areas;
- Constant monitoring/watching for danger to persons and property within Whitworth University protected boundary area;
- Removal of threat to persons and property within Whitworth University boundaries;
- Criminal activity investigation;
- Work in liaison with the Spokane County Sheriff's department.

CRIMINAL ACTION REPORTING

Students, faculty, and staff are strongly encouraged to report any and all suspected and/or actual criminal activity (accurately and promptly), to the office of student life and/or campus security. The campus phone extension for campus security is x3256 or x4444. To reach campus security from a non-campus telephone call 509.777.3256 or 509.777.4444.

Criminal activity will be investigated promptly and thoroughly. Whenever appropriate, the investigative action will be conducted jointly by both the office of the dean of students and the office of campus security. Confidentiality will be maintained to the extent reasonably possible.

The Spokane County Sheriff's department is the local police agency with jurisdiction over Whitworth University's main campus. The City of Spokane Police Department has jurisdiction over the downtown Whitworth campus. In an emergency, the appropriate law enforcement office can be reached from any campus telephone by calling 9-911.

FLOWER FUND

When notified of the death of a close relative, or the birth of an employee's baby, the office of human resource services will send flowers or a card to the employee on behalf of the university community.

HIRE OF RELATIVES

In general, Whitworth does not prohibit or discourage the hiring of persons who have relatives already working at Whitworth. Exceptions to this include Whitworth's prohibition against a person being hired or serving in a position that directly reports to a relative; and the hiring of relatives of an area cabinet officer in that cabinet officer's area of responsibility.

Requests for exceptions to these prohibitions for temporary and student employment will be considered on an individual basis.

BENEFITS OF EMPLOYMENT

BENEFITS ADMINISTRATION

Human resource services administers all benefits of employment, providing notice regarding new employee benefits orientations, open enrollment periods, meetings to discuss benefit plans, changes in coverage, annual plan renewals, insurance company contacts, notice to employees ending employment and to employees whose eligibility under the plans is impacted by a change in their employment status. Forms related to securing benefits under the various benefit plans, and maintaining copies of master insurance contracts and summary plan descriptions for employees are also administered by human resource services. Employees are encouraged to visit with human resource services staff regarding questions related to any of the benefits noted in this section.

Benefits information can be found at <https://www.whitworth.edu/benefits/>

MANDATORY BENEFITS

All employees (faculty and staff, full and part-time, regular, interim, visiting, adjunct, temporary) are covered by the mandatory benefits outlined below.

1. Workers' Compensation

All employees are covered by Workers' Compensation insurance which covers payment of medical services and partial salary loss for work-related injury or illness. The employee is required by law to complete Whitworth's incident report form and submit it to their supervisor within one working day of sustaining a work-related injury or illness. The supervisor is required to complete their section of the incident report form and submit it immediately to human resource services.

If the employee is unable to complete the report because of the seriousness or nature of the illness or injury, it is the supervisor's responsibility to complete the employee's section of the form immediately and to notify human resource services of the inability of the employee to complete paperwork related to the injury or illness.

The employee MUST notify all health care providers at time of service that they believe the illness or injury to be work related. The health care provider's office should immediately complete a Department of Labor and Industries provided claim form. A copy of this form is sent to the employer who completes it using information provided by the employee and supervisor on the incident report form. If the claim is accepted, the Department of Labor and Industries assigns a claim number and notifies the health care providers to bill their office directly for all expenses. This form also initiates time-loss payments, if applicable. The premium is paid jointly by Whitworth and the employee as provided under the laws of the state of Washington.

2. Social Security

Whitworth University is a participant in the Social Security system. Legislated deductions are withheld from employee earnings each month and are matched by university contributions. TUITION REMISSION FOR REGULAR FACULTY AND STAFF

General Information

Eligible Faculty and staff, their spouses, and dependent children qualify for tuition remission benefits as outlined in this policy.

1. The level of tuition remission is determined by date of initial employment and benefits eligibility. An eligible employee is one who is appointed to a regular, visiting, or interim position that is 20-hours per week (half-time) or more and at least nine-months or more in duration.
2. For purposes of their own tuition remission, an employee who works full-time for 9-months or more, or at least .75 FTE for 12-months shall be considered full-time for purposes of tuition remission and is eligible for a 100% tuition remission benefit. A part-time eligible employee shall be considered for their own tuition remission benefits on a prorated schedule based on FTE eligibility.
3. New staff employees are eligible for tuition remission benefits 90 days after their start date at Whitworth. Faculty eligibility begins upon the date of hire.
4. Temporary employees, adjunct faculty and individuals employed less than half-time; nine-months are not eligible for tuition remission. Tuition remission benefits for lecturers are addressed in the Whitworth University Tuition Remission Policy for Lecturers.
 - a. [<https://www.whitworth.edu/forms/general/forms/category/9>]
5. If the employee was previously employed in a benefits-eligible position by a college or university (described in Section 170(b) (1) (A) (ii) of the Internal Revenue Code) at any time within 12 months of employment by Whitworth University, then the plan shall treat service of the employee with the predecessor employer as service with Whitworth University in satisfying the employee's completed years of service requirement for purposes of dependent tuition remission.
6. Any changes to employment status will result in changes to the tuition remission program. For those with undergraduate tuition remission, those changes will take place at the start of the next term (Fall, Jan or Spring term). For those who are receiving graduate or continuing studies tuition remission, those changes will occur at the start of the next module. Any owed taxes will need to be paid prior to the end of the current enrolled module.
7. While tuition remission is 100 percent for an eligible full-time employee (.75 FTE or more), the percentage of tuition remission granted for their spouse and/or dependent children is determined by a graduated scale that is based upon the employee's completed years of service at the time of the first day of class, as well as the employee's level of benefit eligibility as follows:
 - a. Less than 1 year – 20%
 - b. 1 to 2 years – 40%
 - c. 2 to 3 years – 60%
 - d. 3 to 4 years – 80%
 - e. 4 plus years – 100%
8. The provisions of this tuition remission benefit apply only to credits granted by Whitworth University, for courses taught by Whitworth faculty and where the tuition is due Whitworth University. If an eligible employee, spouse or dependent enrolls in a course for which tuition is due another institution, this benefit does not apply, even if the individual is enrolled at Whitworth University.

9. Students receiving full tuition remission (100 percent) are not eligible for additional university sponsored scholarships or grants. Students not eligible for full tuition remission (100 percent) may combine the tuition remission benefit with some or all of the university-sponsored scholarships and grants for which they are eligible – up to the cost of tuition. The tuition remission benefit may only be applied to tuition charges.
10. If an employee intends to use this tuition remission benefit (particularly if qualifying for less-than fulltime tuition remission) and also intends to apply for other financial aid, they are encouraged to meet with a financial aid advisor to determine how this benefit may be used with other sources of aid.
11. Tuition remission eligible employees and their spouses and dependents must maintain satisfactory academic progress as outlined in the Whitworth University Satisfactory Academic Progress for Financial Aid Recipients brochure.
12. Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or higher and must complete each term with a minimum 1.0 grade point average for each term of study. Only the highest grade obtained is counted in the grade point average when a course is repeated. Transferred credits including those received during consortium study, do not count in the calculation of the cumulative and term grade point average, but they are included in the calculation of both attempted and earned credits.
13. A non-exempt (hourly) staff employee who wishes to take a class during their regularly scheduled workday may schedule one course per term subject to supervisory approval and with specific arrangements to make up the time spent in class during the work week. Exempt (salaried) employees should consult with their supervisor if enrolled in classes that may affect their work commitments.
14. Tuition remission forms must be completed and received by the office of Human Resource Services 5 days prior to the start of each term or module being applied for. Failure to comply in a timely way may result in denial of tuition remission benefits and/or subsequent financial impact to the employee/student. \

Undergraduate Education Tuition Remission Benefits

15. An eligible employee, their spouse and/or dependent may enroll in undergraduate courses as outlined in the provisions of this policy.

 - d. under 25 years of age; and
 - e. is claimed as a dependent on the employee's tax return for the school year.
16. Non-degree seeking employees may enroll in classes only if they have open seats. All waitlist and non-matriculated student policies and procedures must be followed.
 - a. For questions about these policies, contact the Registrar's Office.
17. Dependents are ineligible to take non-degree seeking courses.

18. Dependent children and/or spouse of eligible employees may enroll in and receive tuition remission for undergraduate course that leads toward the completion of their first baccalaureate degree.
 - a. Tuition Remission will cover up to 16 credits a semester and 5 credits during Jan term.
 - b. Any overload credit fees are the responsibility of the student.
 - c. Students are eligible until they have attempted a maximum of 150 percent of the minimum number of credits required for the degree (189 credits for undergraduates) or completed all the requirements to receive their degree or certificate. At 158 credits Student Financial Services will have the Registrar determine if a student can mathematically complete the degree within the maximum timeframe of 150%. If the student can't complete his/her degree within the 150% maximum time frame, the student can appeal.
 - d. All enrolled matriculated day students must complete at least 66.67 percent of the cumulative credits that they attempt in order to maintain eligibility.
 - e. Course fees are not covered under tuition remission and are the responsibility of the student
 - f. Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or higher and must complete each term with a minimum 1.0 grade point average for each term of study. Only the highest grade obtained is counted in the grade point average when a course is repeated. Transferred credits, including those received during consortium study, do not count in the calculation of the cumulative and term grade point average, but they are included in the calculation of both attempted and earned credits.

Graduate Tuition Remission Benefits

Doctorate and Certificate programs are ineligible for tuition remission.

19. For employees and their spouses, Whitworth graduate programs will limit the enrollment of students who are receiving tuition remission to a 20% cap.
20. An eligible employee may receive tuition remission for graduate courses on the same basis as for undergraduate courses. Dependent children do not qualify for graduate tuition remission, defined here as any coursework (including student teaching) subsequent to the awarding of a baccalaureate degree.
21. An eligible employee's spouse may receive up to 50% tuition remission for graduate courses. Spouses are only eligible for tuition remission for one graduate degree from Whitworth.
22. Pursuant to Whitworth's Section 127 Plan, tuition remission for graduate courses taken by an eligible employee is tax-free, limited to $5,250 (or such greater or lesser amount as may subsequently be permitted under IRS Code Section 127). The IRS considers a spouse's graduate level course tuition remission taxable income, and statements, which may be used in preparing income tax returns, will be provided to the employee by the University's business office upon request. The IRS also considers an employee's graduate level course tuition remission in excess of $5,250 (or such greater or lesser amount as may subsequently be permitted under IRS Code Section 127) as taxable income. (Required tax associated with this benefit may have a substantial impact on an employee's take-home pay. Employees and/or their spouses may contact human resource services to gain an understanding of this impact and as part of their planning process.)
23. Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of 2.0 or higher and must complete each term with a minimum 1.0 grade point average for each term of study. Only the highest grade obtained is counted in the grade point average when a course is repeated. Transferred credits including those received during consortium study, do not count in the calculation of the cumulative and term grade point average, but they are included in the calculation of both attempted and earned credits.

Continuation of Dependent Tuition Remission Benefits after Ending Employment under Special Circumstances

24. If an employee with at least ten-years of benefits-eligible employment at the University is rendered unable to continue employment with the University due to death or disability (as evidenced by the employee qualifying for University group long-term disability benefits or social security disability benefits) the employee's dependents, whether currently enrolled or not, will continue to be eligible for tuition remission benefits on the same basis as they would have been had the death or disability not occurred.

25. If an employee with at least ten-years of benefits-eligible employment at the University is terminated from employment with the University due to fiscal exigency (evidenced by resolution of the board of trustees), the terminated employee's Whitworth-enrolled dependents will continue to receive tuition remission consistent with other elements of this policy and equal to the percentage of eligibility in effect on the date of termination.
26. Spouses and dependent children who are enrolled and in good standing at Whitworth University at the time of an employee's termination of employment will continue to receive tuition remission for the remainder of that current academic year (September 1 – August 31). An employee who is otherwise in good standing at Whitworth University at the time of termination from employment will continue to receive tuition remission for the remainder of the current term, unless immediate separation is otherwise specified at the time of termination. All other elements of this policy continue to apply.

Please contact the office of human resource services for further information regarding this tuition remission program.

WORSHIP: SEELEY G. MUDD CHAPEL

Regular weekly worship gathers the Whitworth community – students, faculty, staff, and administration – for common worship celebration during each week of the academic year. This provides the opportunity for employees to bear witness to the theme of Whitworth carved in the paving brick at the center of the chapel walkway – Jesus Christ: Lord, Friend, Servant, King. Worship is led by members of the community and invited guests. Worship is the regular occasion when students and employees pause in the midst of busy schedules to listen to God's word, to praise God in prayer and song, and to reflect upon a shared Christian commitment.

COWLES MEMORIAL LIBRARY

The facilities of Cowles Memorial Library are available to each employee. An employee may check out materials, using their identification card.

MILITARY LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Whitworth's military leave policy is in full compliance with the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 (USERRA). Detailed information is outlined by contacting human resource services at 509.777.4872.

JURY DUTY

Whitworth encourages employees to exercise their civic responsibilities in regards to jury service. A leave of absence request is required from an employee summoned for jury duty or other civic obligation. The request must be accompanied by a summons and specific information about dates, civic authority served, and expected compensation. When an employee is required to actually perform jury duty, they shall do so without loss of pay and/or benefits.

OTHER EMPLOYMENT POLICIES

POLICY ON BACKGROUND CHECKS AS PART OF THE HIRING PROCESS

As part of Whitworth's hiring process, all staff and faculty must successfully pass a criminal background check which will be conducted in accordance with state and federal law. The administration will determine the need for any additional background reference checking as part of the hiring process. Any additional inquiries will be conducted in a manner consistent with state and federal law.

POLICY PROHIBITING DISCRIMINATION, HARASSMENT, AND RETALIATION

I. Policy Statement

Whitworth University has an affirmative duty to maintain a work and study environment free from discrimination, harassment, and retaliation of any kind. Whitworth University will not tolerate discrimination, harassment, or retaliation since these behaviors would be in violation of the standards of the Whitworth community. The University will take positive action where necessary to eliminate such practices or remedy their effects. Discrimination, or harassment on any of the bases covered by state or federal anti-discrimination statutes, including race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or any other applicable statutorily protected status are unlawful and a violation of Whitworth University policy; as a religious educational institution affiliated with the Presbyterian church, Whitworth University reserves the right to hire employees who share a commitment to the Christian faith. The essential importance of academic freedom is recognized and a standard of reasonableness will guide the University. Only when academic freedom is used to disguise or is a vehicle for prohibited conduct, will it be questioned. Whitworth University believes that ideas, creativity, and free expression thrive and, indeed can only exist for the entire community in an atmosphere free of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation.

For the purposes of applying this policy, discrimination, harassment and retaliation are defined below:

- A. Discrimination is defined as unequal, adverse treatment of an individual because of their protected legal status, such as race, age, or gender. For instance, different treatment of two similar individuals with respect to pay, opportunity for advancement, or educational opportunity constitutes discrimination if the reason for the different treatment is the protected status of one of the individuals.
- B. Harassment is defined as unwelcome, hostile, or inappropriate conduct directed toward an individual because of their protected status (for instance, persistent comments or jokes about an individual's religion, race, age, or gender). Such conduct violates University policy if it has the purpose or effect of creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment, living environment, or studying environment for the minority individual or substantially interferes with that individual's employment, living or educational environment.
- C. Sexual harassment is one type of harassment. It includes any unwelcome sexual advance, request for sexual favor, or conduct of a sexual nature when:
 - 1. submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of employment or obtaining an education; or
 - 2. submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as a factor in affecting that individual's employment or education; or
 - 3. such conduct has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's employment or education, or of creating an intimidating, demoralizing, threatening or hostile employment, living, or educational environment.

Sexual harassment, as used in this policy, includes sexual assault and sexual violence, both of which are prohibited forms of sex discrimination.

Sexual assault is frequently misunderstood across campuses nationally. Sexual assault occurs when a sexual act is intentional and (a) is committed by physical force, threat or intimidation; (b) ignores the objections of another person; (c) causes another's intoxication or impairment through the use of drugs or alcohol; or (d) takes advantage of another person's incapacitation, state of intimidation, helplessness, or other inability to consent.

Sexual violence (a sub-category of sexual harassment) includes "physical sexual acts perpetrated against a person's will or where a person is incapable of giving consent."

- D. Retaliation is defined as adverse or negative action against an individual who has (1) complained about alleged discrimination, harassment or retaliation, (2) participated as a party or witness in an investigation relating to such allegations, or (3) participated as a party or witness in a court proceeding or administrative investigation relating to such allegations.

II. Reprisal, Retaliation, or False Accusations

Reprisal, retaliation, or false accusations against anyone reporting or participating or thought to have reported or participated in discrimination or harassment allegation(s) or investigation(s) is prohibited and will be treated as violation of policy, regardless of whether any discrimination or harassment is substantiated. False accusations are prohibited and will be treated as violations of this policy. Submission of a good faith complaint or report of harassment will not affect the complainant's or reporter's future employment, grades, educational, living, or working environment.

III. Information and Education

Information and education are important in preventing discrimination, harassment, and retaliation. A copy of this policy will be made available to all employees and students. Faculty, staff, and students should be regularly encouraged to participate in educational programs concerning prevention and reporting of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation. Specific training will be provided to employees in supervisory or otherwise responsible positions.

IV. Complaint Resolution Procedures

Whitworth University administration will develop and implement complaint resolution procedures dealing with instances of alleged discrimination, harassment, and retaliation. Specific procedures consistent with requirements of the federal Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 governing gender discrimination will be addressed.

PROCEDURES FOR INVESTIGATION AND PREVENTION OF DISCRIMINATION, HARASSMENT, AND RETALIATION

I. Reporting Requirement

Whitworth University is committed to building a healthy and safe campus environment, thus members of the campus community may bring complaints or concerns about discriminatory, harassing, or retaliatory behavior to the attention of faculty, supervisors, department heads, deans, vice presidents, student life staff, or the office of human resource services. Any of the above to whom a complaint or concern has been reported must promptly notify the associate vice president of human resource services or the appropriate area vice president/designee, whether or not a formal complaint is anticipated.

Exceptions to this reporting requirement are clergy and employees of the Student Health and Counseling Center who are considered confidential advisors. Discrimination, harassment, and retaliation may be reported even if the complaining employee or student is not a specifically intended target of the conduct.

All Whitworth employees, except those identified as confidential employees are mandatory reporters for potential Title IX violations, including sexual harassment, sexual assault, sexual violence, domestic violence, dating violence, bullying or stalking, and must be promptly reported to Whitworth's Title IX coordinator, Rhosetta Rhodes at titleixcoordinator@whitworth.edu or 509.777.4536.

Failure to promptly report as noted in this procedure could be interpreted as condoning the prohibited behavior which is in violation of the university's Policy Prohibiting Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation.

II. Confidentiality

Complaints will be treated privately to the extent permitted by this procedure's reporting requirements and the university's need to thoroughly and fairly investigate and resolve a reported problem. Confidentiality may not be possible, depending upon the nature of the complaint. The investigative process will protect, to the extent possible, the identity of the complainant in accordance with the complainant's request, with the understanding that the university may need to take certain steps even if a complainant requests that their identity be protected. Anonymous reports may be made but will also limit the ability of the university to investigate and respond. All anonymous reports will be tracked and investigated to the extent possible based on the information provided.

The university will act, to the extent possible, to protect the complainant once a complaint has been filed. The university may need to initiate an investigation and disciplinary action even if the complainant does not request it because the university has a legal obligation to resolve any reported discrimination, harassment or retaliation.

III. Federal Timely Warning Reporting Obligations

Those who report incidents of misconduct should be aware that university administrators must issue immediate, timely warnings for reported incidents that are confirmed to pose a substantial threat of bodily harm or danger to members of the campus community. The university will make every effort to ensure that identifying information, including the reporter's name, is not disclosed. Whitworth will, however, provide enough information for community members to make safety decisions in light of the potential danger.

IV. Investigation of Title IX Allegations

The university's chief commitments are to take reasonable steps to

- (1) end the violence or other prohibited sexual conduct,
- (2) prevent its recurrence, and
- (4) remedy its effects on the complainant and the university community.

A. Use of Advisors

The complainant and respondent of such complaint may each select an advisor of their choosing to accompany and assist throughout the university's process. An outside advisor may be selected but will not be trained in university procedures. The advisor may be a friend, parent, faculty mentor, coworker, attorney or any other person. The advisor will not be permitted to advocate for the complainant or respondent in the process, or to have any role in the process other than to advise and assist.

B. Documented Complaint

A written complaint is normally expected in a Title IX complaint process, however, if the complainant is not comfortable completing a written statement, they may meet with the Title IX coordinator or designee who will interview the complainant and make a written summary of the interview, including the specific nature and effects of the conduct in question, the time and circumstances in which it occurred, and the names of other persons who may have relevant information. The complainant will have an opportunity to review, amend, and sign the statement.

C. Investigation Team/Investigators

Investigator/s will be trained in Title IX requirements. Investigations should be impartial, thorough, and reliable.

D. Timeline

The university will complete its investigation as soon as is reasonably possible under the circumstances, typically within no more than 60 days.

E. Investigation Guidelines

Although these steps may be combined or eliminated depending on the specifics of the situation, guidelines investigators are likely to take include:

- Conducting a preliminary investigation to determine whether there is reasonable information to charge the accused individual, and determining which policy violations should be alleged as part of the complaint.
- If there is insufficient information to support a policy violation, closing the preliminary investigation with no further action.
- Informing the respondent (accused individual) of the investigation and providing a notice of charges, if appropriate, on the basis of the initial investigation.
- Commencing a thorough, reliable, and impartial investigation.

F. Findings

Using a preponderance of the evidence standard, the investigator/s shall determine the extent to which there has or has not been a Title IX violation and shall present these findings to the Title IX coordinator/designee in writing, if deemed appropriate. Preponderance of the evidence is defined as whether a policy violation is more likely than not to have taken place. The investigator/s shall provide written notification to the complainant and respondent of the results of the investigation.

G. Disciplinary Action

The Title IX deputy coordinator/designee, in consultation with the area vice president/designee will decide and take final action on any disciplinary action recommended by the investigation team and upheld in the appeal process, if appropriate.

H. Appeal

If a finding of sexual misconduct is made by the investigator/s, the respondent may make a written appeal to the Title IX coordinator/designee within 5 working days after being notified of the investigation team's conclusions. If no finding of misconduct is found by the investigator/s, the complainant may make a written appeal to the Title IX coordinator/designee within 5 working days of being notified of the investigator's conclusions. The Title IX coordinator/designee will meet with the person making the appeal before determining to accept or reject the findings of the investigator/s. Decisions of the Title IX coordinator/designee are final and are not subject to further appeal except as provided in the Whitworth University Faculty Handbook.

I. Records Retention and Access

Records of all Title IX complaints filed under this policy, findings and recommendations of investigators, and disciplinary actions will be maintained in a confidential file in the office of the Title IX coordinator. If there is a finding of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation against an employee and disciplinary action is taken, the letter to the employee will be made part of that person's permanent personnel file in the office of human resource services and as appropriate, the office of the vice president for academic affairs.

V. Complaint Resolution for Other Than Title IX Allegations

The university is committed to prompt and fair resolution of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation complaints. The following informal and formal procedures are designed to help stop misconduct once it is reported. Selection of an informal vs. formal process resides largely with the person bringing the complaint, however the university may need to investigate regardless of the wishes of the complainant, depending upon the severity of the alleged conduct. The person coming forward with a complaint may end the informal process and proceed with a formal process at any time.

Note: If a complaint of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation is filed by a student against a student, the Whitworth University Student Handbook outlines the applicable procedures. (Copies are available from the offices of the vice president for student life, the associate dean of students and all resident directors.)

A. Informal Complaint Process

1. Use of Informal Resolution

An informal complaint is a voluntary method for trying to get the alleged misconduct to stop. A formal complaint may be filed at any time before, during, or after any informal process is used.

Title IX sexual harassment/assault complaints may be resolved using informal processes, such as mediation, if agreed to by both parties and with the agreement of the Title IX coordinator.

2. Resources for Informal Resolution

Informal ways of resolving a complaint other than Title IX complaints are intended to stop the alleged misconduct. Options for such informal resolution may vary, depending upon the circumstances and on the wants and desires of the complainant; the informal complaint process therefore does not have rigid steps. The university encourages the use of the associate vice president of human resource services, the executive vice president of academic affairs, and/or the vice president/designee for student life as resources on how to informally resolve complaints.

3. Examples of Informal Procedures

Informal methods might include the following: (a) talking directly with the person engaging in the alleged misconduct to say that the behavior is unwelcome; (b) using a neutral third party, such as the associate vice president of human resource services, or an area vice president/designee to talk with the person engaging in the alleged misconduct; (c) writing a letter to that person, identifying what happened and how it made the complainant feel; (d) putting a copy of the university's policy prohibiting discrimination, harassment, and retaliation into that person's mailbox; (e) using a mediator to meet with the person engaged in the alleged misconduct. Any neutral third party or mediator involved in the informal complaint resolution process should contact the associate vice president of human resource services /designee as a resource during the informal process.

B. Formal Complaint Process

1. Use of Formal Complaint Process

A formal complaint may be filed at any time before, during, or after any informal process is used.

The Title IX complaint resolution process is addressed in Section IV of this document.

2. Use of Advisors in the Process

The complainant and respondent of such complaint may each select a member of the campus community to serve as an advisor during the process of complaint handling. The advisor, on the request of the complainant or respondent, may accompany the complainant or respondent in all meetings as an observer or to provide support and assistance during the process.

3. Documented Complaint

A written complaint is normally expected in the formal complaint process, however, if the complainant is not comfortable completing a written statement, they may meet with the associate vice president of human resource services, or the appropriate area vice president/designee who will interview the complainant and make a written summary of the interview, including the specific nature and effects of the conduct in question, the time and circumstances in which it occurred, and the names of other persons who may have relevant information. The complainant will have an opportunity to review, amend, and sign the statement.

Presenting the complaint as promptly as possible after the alleged discriminatory, harassing, or retaliatory behavior occurs is encouraged. Documentation must be specific enough to identify and permit communication with the party submitting it, should detail the facts upon which the complaint is based (including time, date, location, and witnesses), and should identify the person whose actions form the basis of the complaint.

The university will act, to the extent possible to protect the complainant from adverse action once a complaint has been filed.

4. Investigation Team

The university president has delegated responsibility for any formal investigation of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation to the associate vice president of human resource services and the appropriate area vice presidents of the university. Once a formal complaint has been received, an investigation team shall be formed, chaired by the associate vice president of human resource services or an alternate administrator if appointed by the president, and including the appropriate area vice president/designee if appropriate, along with a university faculty or staff Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) representative. The role of the complainant and respondent will determine which vice president and which EEO representative shall serve on the team. Individuals/designees charged with conducting investigations will receive appropriate training to perform their duties.

5. Fair investigation

The investigation team shall conduct a fair and thorough investigation. In addition to meeting with the respondent, the team may also meet with any other individual(s) of their choosing who may have witnessed the alleged misconduct or who could substantiate, refute, or otherwise provide information regarding the complaint. The investigation shall be conducted in a professional and timely manner. Conduct procedures will not require that the complainant be present for hearings.

6. Investigation Findings

The investigation team shall determine the extent to which there has or has not been discrimination, harassment, or retaliation and shall present these findings to the university president/designee in writing, along with any recommended disciplinary action, if deemed appropriate. The investigation team shall provide written notification to the complainant and respondent of the results of the investigation.

7. Disciplinary Action

The area vice president/designee, in consultation with the associate vice president for human resource services/designee, will take final action on any disciplinary action recommended by the investigation team and upheld in the appeal process, if appropriate.

8. Appeal Process

If a finding of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation is made by the investigation team, the respondent may make a written appeal to the president/designee within 5 working days after being notified of the investigation team's conclusions. If no finding of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation is found by the investigation team, the complainant may make a written appeal to the president/designee within 5 working days of being notified of the investigation team's conclusions. The president/designee will meet with the person making the appeal before determining to accept or reject the findings of the investigation team. Decisions of the president/designee are final and are not subject to further appeal except as provided in the Whitworth University Faculty Handbook.

9. Records Retention and Access

Records of complaints filed, findings and recommendations of investigator/s, and disciplinary actions will be maintained in a confidential file in the office of the associate vice president of human resource services. If there is a finding of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation against an employee and disciplinary action is taken, the letter to the employee will be made part of that person's permanent personnel file in the office of human resource services and as appropriate, the office of the vice president for academic affairs.

VI. Retaliation

Reprisal and retaliation are prohibited. Every reasonable effort will be made to protect the complainant from additional harm.

VII. Outside Remedies

The right of a person to prompt and equitable resolution of complaints is not impaired by the pursuit of other remedies, such as filing a complaint with appropriate federal or state departments or agencies. A person is not required to use this complaint resolution procedure before pursuing other remedies, including local law enforcement if the person believes they have been the victim of sexual assault or sexual violence.

Individuals have the right to file a formal complaint with the U.S. Department of Education:

CONSENSUAL RELATIONSHIP POLICY

A consensual romantic or sexual relationship between individuals where a power differential exists is a violation of the university's standard of professional conduct.

Members of our campus community should realize that, if a charge of sexual harassment is subsequently lodged it will be exceedingly difficult to prove immunity on grounds of mutual consent. Whitworth University shall be expected to be unsympathetic to a defense based on consent when the facts establish that a professional power differential existed within the relationship.

It is possible that faculty members or employees may enter into a consensual relationship with one another where no power differential exists. Subsequently, due to appointment or election to a committee or to a job promotion they may find themselves in a situation where a power differential exists. Whitworth will expect the individual in the power position to remove themselves from any deliberation, influence, or decision related to the other party.

DRUG-FREE WORKPLACE

1. It is the policy of Whitworth University that the workplace is to be free from use, possession or distribution of controlled substances. This will enable each employee to perform their work in a safe, conscientious and effective manner free from the effects of drugs. To ensure this:
 - a. The manufacture, sale, possession or use by any employees in the work place of a controlled substance or drug not medically authorized is strictly prohibited;
 - b. The use by an employee of a controlled substance or drug not medically authorized which affects job performance or poses a hazard to the safety and welfare of the employee, or other employees, is strictly prohibited; and
 - c. An employee is required to report any criminal drug statute conviction for a violation to their immediate supervisor within five (5) days after such conviction. The supervisor must immediately notify the associate vice president for human resource services.
2. Violations of the drug abuse policy may result in termination. Furthermore, each employee who observes or has knowledge of other employees who use, possess, or attempt to sell controlled substances or are in a condition which affects their ability to perform job duties, or poses a hazard to the safety and welfare of others shall promptly report such condition to the appropriate supervisor.

Whitworth University takes its commitment to provide a drug-free working environment seriously. All employees who suspect that they may have a drug (or substance) abuse problem are encouraged to seek assistance through their own efforts before the problem affects their employment status. To comply with the Federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1988, human resource services and the health & counseling center maintain a list of agencies which provide rehabilitative and counseling services, etc. Any contact will be held in strictest confidence.

WHITWORTH'S DRUG PREVENTION PROGRAM

As outlined in and required by the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989, and Whitworth University policy, the following general information is provided.

1. Standard of conduct: There is to be no possession, distribution, or consumption of alcohol, illegal mood-altering substance, or controlled medication without a prescription on campus.
2. Available counseling and treatment programs: In those cases where chemical dependency is suspected, employees may be referred to the university's EAP program and/or to one of many of the Spokane area's treatment programs; students may be referred to Whitworth's counseling center for assessment. Employees and students who believe that they may be chemically dependent are encouraged to consult with Whitworth's counseling center or office of human resource services. In-patient and out-patient treatment may be covered under Whitworth's medical insurance program for employees, and a medical leave of absence may be available for up to three months for an employee to seek treatment.
3. Legal sanctions: There are numerous sanctions for violation of state and federal alcohol and drug laws. All Washington State drug-related offenses are found within RCW 69.50. Subject to annual revision, drugs are classified in schedules, which vary depending upon the potential for abuse, medical use, and likelihood of physical or psychological dependence upon the drug. Sanctions including both fines (ranging from $250 to as high as $5,000) and imprisonment (ranging from 90 days to 20 years) are detailed in these sections. Federal drug-related offenses are defined in 21 USC 841, 844, 845, 846, 848, and 924. All sections deal with the manufacture, distribution, dispensing or possession with intent to manufacture, distribute, or dispensing controlled substances. Sanctions include both fines (ranging from $1,000 to as high as $8 million) and imprisonment (ranging from 90 days to 30 years). Simple possession on a first-time offense can carry penalties of $1,000 or more and/or one year of supervised release up to a one-year prison sentence.
4. Whitworth disciplinary sanctions: Any employee violating the standards of conduct spelled out in Whitworth's behavioral policies will be subject to disciplinary procedures up to and including termination of employment. Referral may be made to local, state, or federal authorities depending on the violation.

WHITWORTH UNIVERSITY RECORDING AND LIVESTREAMING POLICY

Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to set forth expectations regarding the recording of classes, meetings or other conversations at Whitworth University, offsite at university-organized events, and over the phone between members of our community. The intent of this policy is to strike a balance between the legitimate uses of audio and visual recordings, and concerns including compliance with the law, academic freedom, privacy, and protection of intellectual property. In an effort to comply with Washington state law (See RCW 9.73.030), promote the freedom to share ideas, and to respect the privacy of community members, the secret recording or live streaming of meetings or other conversations is prohibited. Secret recording is a violation of trust and community that is incompatible with the respect for others expected of all members of the Whitworth community. Classes may be audio-recorded by the instructor, or by a student in the class with the prior consent of only the instructor or as an official authorized academic accommodation.

Policy

It is expected that faculty, students, and staff will respect the privacy of other individuals in the workplace and educational setting. Consequently, the secret recording or live streaming (audio or video) of classes, meetings or other conversations, including telephone calls, is prohibited, as not compatible with the law and/or the promotion of an open exchange of ideas. Recordings may serve many legitimate academic and workplace purposes. However, the university does not condone recording or live streaming of any university activities when participants are unaware that such recordings are being made. In order to promote an environment of trust and collegiality, recordings may be made only with the prior consent of the parties involved. Covert/secret recording or live streaming of any in-person or telephone conversation or meeting occurring at the workplace, including any classroom or other educational setting, or conversations or meetings offsite that deal with workplace or educational matters is prohibited. Employees are also prohibited from arranging for others to record conversations, telephone calls or other work or educational activities, unless specifically permitted by the participants. It is also a violation of this policy to download recorded conversations to a computer, upload them to the internet, or otherwise share, transmit or publish such recordings without the prior written consent of all participants (unless the instructor has agreed in writing to such action, participants are aware of being recorded, and the recording is a recording of the instructor's class).

Classes may be audio-recorded by the instructor for instructional purposes, or by a student in the class for personal use with the prior consent of only the instructor. Class participants should be informed when a class may be recorded. However, instructors should not disclose the identity of students recording classes under an accommodation. Class recordings by students may not be downloaded to any computer, uploaded to the internet, or otherwise shared, transmitted or published without the further, prior written consent of the instructor. Class recordings by instructors may be downloaded to computers, uploaded to the internet, or otherwise shared, transmitted or published only for legitimate instructional purposes.

The university prohibits the transmission of classroom lectures and discussions by students unless written permission from the instructor has been obtained and guest speakers have been informed that audio/video recording or live streaming may occur.

Video recordings present additional privacy concerns, and potential concerns with copyright and intellectual property issues. Therefore, video recordings should only be allowed under conditions completely understood and approved in advance, in writing, by the instructor. All students and other participants in a class or educational activity which will be video recorded must be informed of the recording. Video recordings shall not be publicly shared, such as on the internet or in public viewings, except by the instructor or with the prior written consent of the instructor.

Surveillance cameras/equipment and software may be placed on campus by authorized campus personnel to prevent or deter crimes and protect public safety and to facilitate official university investigations into criminal activities or violations of campus policy. The university reserves the right to use or disclose recordings in the course of investigations or lawsuits or in response to a subpoena or request by law enforcement.

Recording of lectures or class presentations is solely authorized for the purposes of individual or group study with other students enrolled in the same class. Permission to allow the recording is not a transfer of any copyrights in the recording. The recording may not be reproduced or uploaded to publicly accessible web environments without the written permission of the instructor or appropriate Whitworth University administrator.

Recordings, course materials, and lecture notes may not be exchanged or distributed for commercial purposes, for compensation, or for any other purpose other than study by students enrolled in the class. Public distribution of such materials by students may constitute copyright infringement in violation of federal or state law, or university policy.

Within Whitworth University, violation of this policy by a student may lead to disciplinary action, either under policies related to academic integrity or the student code of conduct, depending on the circumstances of the violation. Violation of the policy by an employee may lead to disciplinary action up to possible termination. Violation of Washington state law may lead to criminal sanctions and/or exposure to civil liability. Alleged violations of the policy by students should be reported either to the dean of students or academic affairs offices. Alleged violations by university employees should be reported to the human resources office. Those reporting alleged violations are afforded protections under Whitworth's Policy Prohibiting Discrimination, Harassment and Retaliation.

Exceptions

It is not a violation of this policy for a student given official permission by Whitworth Educational Support Services to record class sessions as an academic accommodation to do so. Students are entitled to educational accommodations, to exercise any rights protected under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, including needed recording or adaptations of classroom lectures or materials for personal research and study. The restrictions on third-party web and commercial distribution apply in such cases.

Third Party Permissions

Guests, including press and media, may seek prior permission to record, live stream and disseminate recordings on university property and at university events by contacting the office of University Marketing and Communications.

Destruction of Approved Recordings

Students must destroy recordings at the end of the semester in which they are enrolled in the class unless they receive the instructor's written permission to retain them or are entitled to retain them as an accommodation authorized by Educational Support Services.
