Monitoring Degree Requirements

Degree requirements are coded with colors and symbols depending on the status of that requirement.

-  This symbol means that you have not completed, registered for, or planned a course that meets this requirement
-  This symbol means that this requirement has been completed
-  This symbol means that you have planned a course for this requirement in a future semester. Remember, this does not mean this course will be offered in the term that you planned it
-  This symbol means that a course in this requirement is currently in progress

View a New Program – “What if” I change my major?

Thinking about switching your major? Wondering which of your current courses would go toward a new program? Try “View a New Program.”

You have the option to choose a program that is similar to your current program. This will show an estimate of your progress if you were to switch. This estimated progress only includes your completed courses, not your planned or registered courses.

Academic Programs

View the degree requirements for any program you are interested in, by searching and selecting a program below.

Select from one of the following programs related to your current program(s):

Remember, Viewing and New Program does not change your major. To officially change your major, you will need to fill out a major/minor form and return it to the registrar’s office.

When you refresh your page or exit out of the program, the new program requirements will disappear.
